1 Simulation Background

Oceania is a member state of the European Union. Its parliament operates under a competitive electoral system, and the government is formed by the parliamentary majority. The national emblem is shown below:

1.1 Population Structure

Occupational Structure

- Farmers 30% (annual income: 30,000 euros)
- Manufacturing workers 40% (annual income: 50,000 euros)
- Mining workers 20% (annual income: 35,000 euros)
- Capitalist elites 10% (annual income: 120,000 euros)

Ethnic Structure

- Group A 40% (official language)
- Group B 35% (higher-income urban group)

- Group C 25% (borderland region; tense relations with Group A)

Ideology

- Traditional devout believers 50%
- Atheists 50%

2 Basic Rules

- Each student serves as a member of parliament, representing one constituency (occupation + ethnicity + ideology). Constituencies are randomly assigned to students according to the proportional distribution. The constituencies are assigned at the end of the previous class and are visible to everyone.
- All constituency information is public.
- Objective: obtain the highest total score across three rounds of voting.
- If a member receives 0 points in all three rounds, they will lose in the “next election.”

2.1 Speaking Rules

- All speeches must be addressed to the Speaker.
- Direct member-to-member dialogue is not allowed.
- Ordinary speeches are limited to 1 minute.
- Prime minister campaign speeches and ministers’ readings of bills are limited to 2 minutes.
- Please use appropriate language and etiquette in all speeches. Members should be addressed as “Member X,” “Prime Minister X,” or “Minister X.” Note: the party whip is the deputy prime minister.

3 Main Tools

- Formal voting: Xuezaizheda, “Model Parliament Activity”
- Bill promulgation and written discussion: Xuezaizheda, “Cabinet Bulletin Board” message board
- Budget calculator, activity voting, and score submission: Oceania Office System; download it from the Model Parliament Activity page in HTML5 format.
- Seeking a Supreme Court ruling: write a complaint in written form and send a DingTalk message to the Speaker (and the class group). The Speaker will copy and paste it into ChatGPT, which will issue a ruling based on the written content. The complaint must state the plaintiff, the defendant, the expected ruling (for example: requesting the Court to rule that resolution xxxxx is illegal), and sufficient reasons. The defendant may submit a defense statement in the same format. After collecting the plaintiff’s complaint and the defense statement, the Court will issue its ruling.

4 Roles

Speaker of Parliament

Chairs the meeting and maintains order.

Prime Minister

Elected through competition and responsible for forming the cabinet.

Deputy Prime Minister (Party Whip)

Manages the party membership list and supervises discipline. May deduct 1 point from members who violate party discipline in each round (maximum 1 point). If a member wants to switch parties, they must register with the deputy prime minister.

Minister of Finance

Proposes the fiscal budget bill and answers questions.

Minister of Foreign Affairs

Proposes the foreign policy bill and answers questions.

Shadow Cabinet

The opposition party establishes the corresponding positions.

Members of Parliament

Responsible for voting, questioning, negotiation, and coalition-building.

AI Supreme Court

If procedural disputes arise, they may be submitted in writing to the Speaker for AI adjudication. The ruling is final and cannot be appealed. Complaints concerning objective facts about Oceania will not be accepted.

Parliamentary Activity Historian

Voluntary registration. The historian cannot simultaneously serve as a cabinet member. The historian is responsible for recording and narrating the history of the parliamentary activity, including text and images, and must submit the record to the Speaker within one week after the activity ends.

5 Activity Procedure

Round 1: Cabinet Formation [32 minutes]

1. Free party formation (each party must have at least 2 members)
2. Registration for the prime minister election (maximum three teams), consisting of a prime minister and a party whip. Write the names on the blackboard to register (two names and the party name); first come, first served. [10 minutes]
3. Campaign speeches by prime minister candidates (explaining budgetary and foreign policy directions) [7 minutes]
4. Questioning (2 rounds). Two ordinary members ask the same question to all candidates. Candidates speak in turn and may answer the question or ask other candidates questions. [8 minutes]
5. Voting (plurality voting or alternative vote) [5 minutes]
6. The prime minister forms the cabinet (party whip, minister of finance, minister of foreign affairs) [2 minutes]

Round 1 Scoring

- Prime minister and party whip: 3 points
- Cabinet members: 2 points
- Governing party members: 1 point
- Opposition prime minister candidate: 2 points
- Opposition cabinet: 1 point

Round 2: Fiscal Budget Bill

Fiscal capacity: 100 points (20 points less than the previous administration). Members' task: reduce the budget while protecting their own constituency interests.

Examples of Policy Directions

Ideological Policies

- Gender equality education (20 points): traditional devout believers -, atheists +
- Mandatory policy for three or more children (20 points): traditional devout believers +, atheists -

Ethnic Policies

- Assistance plan for elderly, young, borderland, and poor areas (20 points): Group A -, Group B -, Group C +

- National language promotion plan (20 points): Group A +, Group B -, Group C -

Industrial Policies

- Welfare plan for the poor (20 points): farmers +, manufacturing workers -, mining workers +, capitalist elites -
- Infrastructure construction (20 points): farmers -, manufacturing workers +, mining workers +, capitalist elites +

Procedure (25–41 minutes)

1. The cabinet drafts the budget, and the minister of finance reads it aloud. [12 minutes]
2. Debate by the shadow minister of finance (2 rounds) [4 minutes]
3. Questioning by members of parliament (2 rounds) [4 minutes]
4. Voting [5 minutes]
5. If passed: scores are calculated according to the budget.
6. If not passed: revise and vote again. [5 minutes]
7. If it still does not pass: a motion of no confidence may be launched (passes with 50%). The cabinet falls, the opposition leader scores, and the opposition gains the right to form a cabinet. The opposition prime minister and cabinet receive points. The opposition may draft a new budget and vote again, returning to the “minister of finance reads the budget” procedure. From this round onward, the debate and questioning procedures may be skipped. [5–17 minutes]
8. If the motion of no confidence fails, the cabinet remains in office and no one scores. Proceed to the “budget bill failure” procedure.
9. Budget bill failure: all budget items are simultaneously reduced by 4 points for scoring purposes (the previous administration’s budget is proportionally reduced and continues to be implemented).

Budget Scoring Method

Rank groups by the benefit rate of the member’s constituency group:

- Top 25%: 3 points
- 26–50%: 2 points
- 51–75%: 1 point
- Bottom 25%: 0 points

Round 3: Foreign Policy Bill

Policy choices:

- Balanced policy
- Pro-US policy: farmers -, manufacturing workers +, mining workers -, capitalist elites +; Group C +, Group A -, Group B -; devout believers -, atheists +
- Pro-China policy: farmers +, manufacturing workers -, mining workers +, capitalist elites -; supports the Oceania government's ethnic policy (gains and losses are calculated according to the fiscal policy, counted as 1 point); devout believers +, atheists -.

Procedure (20 minutes):

1. Minister of foreign affairs reads the bill. [7 minutes]
2. Debate by the shadow minister of foreign affairs. [4 minutes]
3. Questioning by members of parliament. [4 minutes]
4. Voting. [5 minutes]

The scoring method is the same as in Round 2.

6 Final Awards

The total score is the sum of the three rounds.

- Best Politician (top three; ties allowed, maximum five people)
- Most Popular Governing Party Member (ties allowed, maximum 2 people)
- Most Popular Opposition Party Member (ties allowed, maximum 2 people)

Regular Grade Bonus

- Best Politician / Most Popular Member / Historian: +5% (not cumulative)
- Other re-elected members: +2%

Wishing all members a smooth political career!
